Impacts to Minnesota Breweries/Brewpubs During the Coronavirus Pandemic

To help guide our communications with policymakers, we launched a survey designed to gauge the impacts of COVID-19 Minnesota’s craft breweries. We had 86 of 150 breweries respond in less than 24 hours.

Because so many breweries sell a high percentage of their beer through their taproom or brewpub, and draught sales make up roughly a third of craft production, the rapid shuttering or restriction of breweries, bars, and restaurants has drastically cut short-term cash flow as well as production in the medium-term. Many breweries are facing a “no-way-out” situation if Minnesota legislators do not act quickly to allow for all breweries to sell any package from their taproom/brewpub, release breweries from paying rent/utilities for minimum two months, and develop a small business fund to supply breweries with grants.

Production Changes:

25%
have stopped production

75%
have slowed production

3%
have not changed production

Staff Reduction

- Have Laid Off/Fuloughed Employees
- Plan to Lay Off/Furlough Employees
- Do Not Plan to Lay Off/Furlough Employees

Other Reported Impacts

- Decreased morale
- Capital projects delayed
- Bills don't stop coming
- Owners do not qualify for UI
- Merchandise sales down
- Dumping products that will expire
- Harder to order ingredients/supplies
- Canceled charitable giving

Brewery/Brewpub Notes to Policymakers:

- "This brewery and the entire industry is at risk of disappearing!"
- "We are a 2-year-old brewery that only sells out of the taproom. Being so new we are still in an extremely vulnerable position. We just got caught up on most of our bills, but our lease. [...] Loans are OK, but you eventually have to pay them back. We can't afford to keep going further in debt for the hope of paying it off someday."
- "Being in a seasonal tourism town, we have been operating week to week since then until summer comes around. This will be the nail in the coffin/bankruptcy if something doesn't happen soon. Even if we lose half of our upcoming summer, I don't see how we could survive through next winter. Being forced to shut down has brought me to tears more than I ever have been. Please, from us and many others, help."
- "Having to close our brand-new taproom down has killed up to 80% of our business. There's no way we can survive this very long without some major assistance."
- "We need quick action to allow us to keep paying our employees. Our number one priority is those employees. We will look to additional loans or relief opportunities to take care of our debts, but it is impossible to keep our employees employed with the heavy reduction in income that comes from our Taproom being closed."
- "I live in a rural designated community and this is my only source of income. With both businesses shut down and self-employed, I don't qualify for unemployment so I now have no income to pay my upcoming brewpub license renewal or my liquor license and insurance let alone my $3,000 mortgage and then add in insurance, internet, phone and food and gas for my family I'm screwed."

- “Requirements for vendors such as gas company, electric company, water, cable/phone/internet to help share in the pain and waive charges, reduce costs of their services or require them to allow us to pay on terms for a time.”
- “If we can't re-open within 10 weeks, we are in danger of closing.”
- “HELP!”
- “Take-out growler sales are helping, but it's still not enough to pay the bills or employees.”
- “We are strong, determined and going to do whatever it takes to survive.”
- “We are on the verge of bankruptcy.”
- “This has obliterated our business.”
- “We are scared. Very scared.”
- “Loans aren't going to save most of us...”
- “The actions taken by the government, especially deterring loans, taxes, etc. will directly influence how many breweries will still be in business when this is over. Thanks for driving these important issues.”
- “We work hard to bring the community together & support many charities as best we can.”
- “I have close to $30k in inventory, all 375ml packaging that we send out of state. Nobody is buying, even local because we self-distribute. If I could sell that direct to consumer from [our brewery] it would be very helpful to me keeping the lights on. I've had to lay off my entire staff.”
